This groundbreaking is a celebration, but not just of the new School that will be the end result of our efforts. This is a celebration of ur next step in this ourney. Up until today, we have been planning. Now we step outside and truly begin.

Yes, we are constructing bailding but this is not just about the spaces that are built, it is not just about money and schedules Through this process, was esetting our expectations four future as a school community. We must create an expectation for excellence in achievement through every act from this day forward. We must
