PUBLIC COMMENT

Greg Burrill stated that he was not accusing the Board as being racists; however, either we all are or none of us are. Mr. Burrill asked the Board to remember forgiveness.

Maureen Kenny stated that her son would not be attending Ockley Green next year as he has experienced physical bullying and received homophobic comments. .

Shanda Justice commented that her autistic child was attending the same school as their older brother, Ockley Green, but now she has heard that they have to be separated and attend different schools where race does matter. Her child has to find another school again due to lack of bus service. A transfer policy will change the community that they have built.

Jessica Thompson, PTA President of Chief Joe/Ockley Green, told her story about institutional racism. She lives in the St. John neighborhood and her child needs to ride the bus. She had been informed the previous week that PPS would no longer provide buses to Ockley Green. She asked the Board to review that decision through the equity lens.

UPDATE: JEFFERSON ENROLLMENT BALANCING

Antonio Lopez, Regional Administrator for the Jefferson and Franklin Clusters, stated that the Board packet provides related policies and next steps for enrollment balancing in the Jefferson Cluster. Richard Gilliam, Outreach Coordinator for the Jefferson Cluster, works with all cluster schools in the marketing and promotion of their schools as neighborhood schools and has been a conduit to parents.

Evelyn Flowers, Vice Principal at Boise Eliot, presented a video on their STEAM program, adding that the program has had a positive change in student attitudes. Director Buel questioned if the Common Core has detracted from their program. Ms. Flowers responded that the state standard have helped guide them in narrowing down what they will do; everything is integrated.

Erin Berg, Principal of King School, reported that she has experienced enthusiasm and support from teachers and parents. Mr. Berg spoke about the programs that are offered at King, e.g, Mandarin Immersion, IB Program, and art. Director Buel asked what Ms. Berg has done to subtract from the teachers workload. Ms. Berg responded that she supports her teachers and has used Instructional Specialist time to alleviate some of the workload for teachers. Director Regan questioned where the District was at with students continuing on with IB in high schools. Superintendent Smith responded that one high school is looking into it, and Lincoln and Cleveland are already IB high schools.

Director Regan asked what the mix of students was in the Mandarin class. Ms. Berg responded that there were a low number of native Mandarin speakers (5) between the two grades and that they were actively recruiting Mandarin speaking families to their program.

Molly Chun, Principal of Chief Joe/Ockley Green, reported that Kristen Moon, Instructional Specialist, will head up the STEAM work at Ockley Green. Ms. Chun stated that the past year had been a challenge as they tried to replicate the Boise Eliot/Humboldt merger. There were different demographics and needs/wants between Chief Joe and Ockley Green, and they have been working on communications and building a community. They have established a Positive Behavior system and strategies and interventions, and they have a very robust enrichment program. Director Regan asked if the new Ombudsmen would be able to help parents with bullying. Superintendent Smith responded yes.
